

The Artist's Almanac - April 2018

The Greeks thought it laughable; the Romans, a heresy against their emperor, Caesar. The Jews thought it a conspiracy. And even his disciples doubted and betrayed Him. Then a team of allegedly impartial (?) scientists declared it a fake.

And yet, now a group of truly impartial scientists have painstakingly reexamined the methods and findings of that first group, and found their report to be the real fake.

These findings are presented in the link below. And in reading them and the submenu appended, perhaps you will come to appreciate why Christianity grew to the largest belief in the world today, more than twenty millennia after the event, and how Christ sent us the world's first selfie.

Read these carefully, and may you come away rejoicing this Easter Sunday of Sundays.
